SECTION I

Overview

Summary & Goals

Through the development of the SMI Apprentice Program, the CMST and SML positions were created to provide opportunities for selected SMI undergraduate students to advance their field work experiences. Participants would learn about contemporary mathematics and science content plus the pedagogy for teaching the subject content through a variety of courses, seminars and joint adventures with existing projects. Apprentices are provided teaching experiences under direct supervision from public school teachers. The ultimate goal is to create academic assistance, financial support and mentoring, resulting in preparedness for each participant to consider pursuit of a teaching credential, an intern position in the public schools, admission to an advanced degree program in mathematics/science education.

The SMI Apprentice Program is part of an overall master plan to improve mathematics and science education in Riverside and San Bernardino counties. The program partners with the College of Natural and Agricultural Sciences, UCR Graduate School of Education, Riverside County Office of Education, and San Bernardino County Superintendent of Schools Office. As a result, public school students in these areas improve their interest and their abilities in mathematics and science.

The main goal of this program is to provide professional development and a mentoring setting for college mathematics/science majors who want to become teachers. The program also addresses the need to improve student achievement on tests involving mathematics and science while enriching mathematics/science content knowledge and pedagogical content knowledge of existing teachers.

This could include mathematics or science instruction, tutoring or other related activities.

TAX INFORMATION:

This is to inform you about the general treatment of your Cal Teach-SMI stipend for tax purposes, as well as your reporting and recordkeeping responsibilities.

Your Cal Teach-SMI stipend is considered to be a scholarship for tax purposes. The information provided below applies to any scholarship, fellowship, or grant, regardless of whether the award is from the University of California or from a third-party source.

Under Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations, you do not have to pay taxes on a scholarship to the extent the funds are used for required tuition, fees, books, supplies, equipment, or other mandatory fees for classes or enrollment. The amount of health insurance premiums you pay to the University in order to be enrolled is also considered a required fee. To the extent you use scholarship funds to pay for these types of required fees and expenses, the funds should be excluded from your taxable income.

You are required to maintain records and documentation showing that you used all or a portion of your scholarship or fellowship funds for these required purposes. Any portion of a scholarship or fellowship used to pay for other expenses (e.g., room and board, travel, and other living expenses) should be included in your taxable income for the year.

For more information on the tax treatment of scholarships and fellowships, see IRS Publication 970 (Tax Benefits for Education), which can be found on the IRS website at <http://www.irs.gov/>.

You should make the determination about whether your Cal Teach-SMI or other scholarship awards are taxable based upon your individual facts, not how the University may have applied your award funds to the amounts you owed the University. If you determine that a portion or all of your scholarship funds are not subject to tax, you should retain receipts and other documents that show the total amount of your qualifying (i.e., nontaxable) expenses.

The University is required by federal law to file a Form 1098-T (Tuition Statement) information return to the IRS for most students. If a return is filed, the University will also provide you with a copy of the return showing the information reported to the IRS. Depending on the UC campus you attend, either the amount of qualified tuition and related expenses paid, or the amount billed, is reported (in either Box 1 or Box 2 of the 1098-T).

Among other information, the University also is required to report the amount of all scholarships (referred to by the IRS as "scholarships or grants"), from all known sources, that the University processed on your behalf. The amounts reported on the 1098-T represent a summary of the qualified tuition and related expenses by campus, as well as any scholarships you received, based on the information on file at the UC campus you attended. Since UC Office of the President (through UCLA) will be disbursing the Cal Teach-SMI stipends regardless of the campus attended, your stipend may not appear on the 1098-T form you receive from UCR. This information may be of use to you in calculating the amount of the higher education tax credit or deduction you may be eligible to claim, but your personal financial records serve as the official supporting documentation for your federal income tax return. For more information about the education tax credit or deduction, see IRS Publication 970, which is available on the IRS website shown above.

Please note that this letter is intended only to introduce you to the tax rules applicable to recipients of scholarships. The University of California does not provide tax advice; you should contact your personal tax advisor with any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,
Bobbi McCracken
Asst. Vice Chancellor-Financial Services and Controller – UCR
